

Code of Conduct

NovaTech Solutions Pvt. Ltd.

Policy Document Code: NTS-COM-001

Internal Company Policy

This document contains fictional policy information created specifically for an academic Enterprise RAG project. It does not represent a real company's policy.

1. Purpose

The Code of Conduct establishes standards for professional and ethical behaviour at NovaTech. It applies to employees while performing company work and representing the organisation.

Employees are expected to act honestly, respectfully, and responsibly and to protect company and customer interests.

2. Professional Behaviour

Employees must treat colleagues, customers, partners, and other stakeholders with dignity and respect. Harassment, discrimination, intimidation, threats, and abusive workplace behaviour are prohibited.

Employees should use professional communication in company systems, meetings, email, messaging platforms, and other work-related channels.

- Treat colleagues with respect.
- Avoid harassment and discriminatory behaviour.
- Use professional language.
- Follow applicable workplace procedures.

3. Conflict of Interest

A conflict of interest may arise when an employee's personal, financial, family, or external business interests could interfere with objective decision-making on behalf of NovaTech.

Employees must disclose potential conflicts to their manager or the appropriate Compliance/HR channel and should not participate in decisions where their personal interests create an undisclosed conflict.

- Disclose potential conflicts promptly.
- Do not use company authority for personal benefit.
- Avoid participating in decisions involving undisclosed personal interests.

4. Gifts and Entertainment

Employees must not accept or offer gifts, entertainment, payments, or other benefits that could improperly influence a business decision.

Reasonable business hospitality may be permitted when it is transparent, appropriate, lawful, and consistent with company procedures.

5. Confidentiality

Employees must protect confidential company, customer, employee, and partner information. Confidential information must only be accessed or shared for legitimate business purposes.

Unauthorised disclosure of confidential information may result in disciplinary action and may also create legal or contractual consequences.

6. Social Media

Employees should not disclose confidential company information, customer data, security information, or internal documents through personal social media accounts.

Employees speaking publicly about the company should distinguish personal views from official company statements and must not represent themselves as an authorised company spokesperson unless authorised.

7. Anti-bribery and Ethical Business

Employees must not offer, request, provide, or accept bribes or improper payments in connection with company business.

Suspected bribery, fraud, corruption, or unethical conduct should be reported through the appropriate company reporting channel.

8. Disciplinary Process

A confirmed violation of the Code of Conduct may result in corrective or disciplinary action depending on the nature and seriousness of the violation.

Possible actions may include counselling, written warning, suspension, termination of employment, or other action permitted by company policy and applicable law.
